SUNDAY MAIL DISTRIBUTION IS ANNOUNCED

In accordance with the promise made last week by Postmaster General Hays, that Tonopah would have a seven-day mail distribution rescheduled, the official word has been received from Washington and is announced in the following letter addressed to the Bonanza by postmaster J. J. Sequilian:

Under date of December 8th, 1921, there is an receipt of a letter from the first assistant postmaster general, Washington, D. C., authorizing the Sunday distribution of mail to all offices. The letter also advises that any additional auxiliary clerks necessary, will receive the same consideration of that Bureau in the granting of a supplementary allowance as was given to the extension of service.

It is gratifying to know that after a period of seven months without the Sunday mail to Tonopah, it is now being distributed. It is also gratifying to know that the postmaster for him to realize that he has the hearty cooperation of the Washington officials in any plan for expansion of the service. Any time the mail has requested additional help or additional wages for those already employed his demands have always been met with a prompt and satisfactory response from the department in spite of other statements printed to the contrary.

PYRAMID LAKE ONCE COVERED BIG TERRITORY

During comparatively recent geological time a great lake flooded a number of the valleys in northwest Nevada. This lake has now almost completely disappeared, but geologists have named it, in honor of John La Hontan, one of the early explorers of the headwaters of the Mississippi. At the time of its greatest expansion, according to the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, this ancient lake covered 8,000 square miles. The deepest part of Lake Lahontan, which was 880 feet deep, was the site of the present Pyramid Lake. One of its remnants, so that its surface stood about 500 feet above the surface of Pyramid Lake. The ancient lake had no outlet except the one that led straight up its waters being dissipated entirely by evaporation.

A large area a few miles north of Winnemucca, Nev., is covered with sand dunes that were formed since Lake Lahontan disappeared. These dunes are fully 75 feet thick, and their steeper slopes are on the east side, indicating that the whole vast field of sand is slowly traveling eastward. The march of this sand is irresistible, and its progress has necessitated a number of changes in the roads in the southern part of Little Humboldt Valley during recent years. In some places in this region the telegraph poles have been buried so deep that they have had to be spliced in order to keep the wires above the crests of the sand dunes. The sand is of a light creamy-yellow color and forms beautifully curved ridges and waves that are covered with an artistic fretwork of wind ripples.

WRITER LAUDS OPERATORS AS REAL HEROINES

One of the most interesting points which is mentioned in several stories of "Way Down East" is the heroism of the telephone operators.

A few weeks ago in a high office building, the girl in the switchboard picked up every office and told her occupants to get out. A day break, and a flood rushed down the valley. The telephone girls, thanks to their posts and sent word of the flood, saved many lives.

A regular comes in the night. A frightened woman calls the police station, but before she gets in her call, the telephone strikes her senseless. The telephone girl, intuitively knows the meaning of the interrupted call and sends the police where the trouble is. Such things as these I remember to have read.

I do not know of a town where the telephone is not considered of the telephone service.

In common with my fellow men, I too, have seasons of impatience because the service is not better.

But every time I think of the service, as good as it is, I read how our boys in France broke up into cheers when the first shipment of American telephone girls arrived. I cheered with them. I have used the telephone in many foreign countries, and can testify that in comparison with the service here, the American telephone girl is an angel.

She has a pleasant voice. She is naturally courteous. She is so cheerful. If once in a long time her only gets on her nerves, so to speak, she is an angel.

I stood a few days ago beside the central operator in a large railway station at a time when trains were coming in in considerable numbers and many people were waiting telephone connections in a hurry.

I was impressed by her quiet, courteous demeanor, her voice that did not rise, and the rapidity with which she did her work.

She was doubtless above the average telephone girl and had a more responsible position than most of them; but she is not the only one of her kind.

Let me suggest that we all try to be a little more patient and courteous toward the telephone girl.

In the first place, I think she deserves it. In the next place, I think it will improve the service.

town bastille is a stone house whose sidewalk is four inches from the stone sides of the jail. Not knowing that it was a separate building, he continued to drift right along into the other building and had just about knocked a hole through when the owner was awakened and told him if he didn't desist he would call the officers. The only excuse that Stubb has is that he being a miner, when the officer locked him up for disturbing the peace, he told him it would be a good place to mine, and claims he was following instructions.

AMUSEMENTS

"WAY DOWN EAST" LAST TIME TODAY

D. W. Griffith's greatest picture, "Way Down East" will be shown for the last time at the Butler today. Nothing like it has ever been dreamed of in the theatre before and its record is the most astonishing thing of the kind known to date. The simple tale of the original play, its plain people and its quaint humors has been enlarged upon to such an extent that not only a new drama has been woven about the love story of Ann Moore and David Bartlett, but a new form of art in which to express the theme is evolved. Murmurs of delight greet its scenes of exquisite beauty in a pictorial sense, hearty laughter accompanies the foolish antics and the simple drollery of its revealing characters and a soul stirring interest rushes with its unfolding to a climax the like of which was never known on any stage in the world until Griffith broke loose with his blinding snowstorm and ice jam on the river which is the tour de force of "Way Down East," and has aroused so much comment that it has broken records in every city in which it has been presented.

To-day is the last opportunity to see one of the very greatest, if not the greatest film spectacles that has been produced thus far.
